

4. On the Job

Here are all those basic soft skills that your staff need to navigate those early days.

Getting off on the Right Foot

Starting a new job is stressful for any new employee but what if this is a person's first job ever or maybe just for a long time? How can you help them make a good impression?

The Dark Side

Forewarned is forearmed. We will spend some time looking at common mistakes that can hamper a person's confidence and career progression.

They've Got What it Takes

If you are interested in making sure that your staff convey a professional impression to colleagues and clients, we have numerous tips to help them to achieve that.

Contact lene@theglassceilingproject.com to help your staff through those early days.

"Lene combines her technical ability and focus with the ability to communicate well and a passionate and highly infectious enthusiasm..."

Rob Purves, Barrister

THE
GLASS
CEILING
PROJECT